Juilliard
Fall Festival

It all starts here

SEPTEMBER 12–20, 2025

25/26

Eight days of boundary-pushing performances
that launch New York's performing arts season

Welcome to Juilliard's Second Annual Fall Festival!

What a way to begin a year, throwing open the doors to music, dance, and drama in all their blazing variety. Our festival inaugurates the performance season not just as a series of events but as a declaration of purpose.

What you'll experience is the heartbeat of Juilliard: a foundation of tradition that sparks a spirit of innovation. One moment a classic, centuries old and burning bright; the next, something brand new, pulsing with today's energy. It's all connected. The through line is the aspiration, the sheer necessity of making art, and of the education that drives it all forward with reverence and curiosity.

And so we begin with an opening night that points us toward the future, and finish with a closing night that reminds us where we've come from. In that context, Juilliard is not just a school and not just a stage. It is a promise carried by students from all over the globe and fulfilled in the hearts of every audience member who joins them.

As we launch this new season, we also look ahead to a future where every gifted young artist can create, learn, and thrive without financial barriers. Our campaign to make Juilliard ever more tuition-free is making that future a reality. Thank you for being part of this journey and for sharing in the promise of what's to come. Discover how we're empowering the next generation of artists, and join us at juilliard.edu/campaign.

Onward!

A Place for Us
Opening Day at Juilliard Station

Saturday, September 13, 2025

Welcome, my friends!

Today, we dedicate Juilliard Station as A Place for Us.

But who is "us"? It's a question that points to what's at stake in our work today, in this radically public setting behind the glass. The philosopher Arthur Danto wrote, "Public art is the public transfigured. It is us, in the process of artistic transformation."

To step into the Station is to join in creating that radiant "us," as an artwork of ever-expanding circles from school to city. Opening Day celebrates this possibility, beginning in the morning with pop-up classes hosted by the Extension Division and continuing into the afternoon with a breadth of performance that is uniquely Juilliard—and uniquely New York: Thelonious Monk, Leonard Bernstein, Julius Eastman, Jane Jacobs, and Juilliard's own Manuel Sosa.

Since last September, Juilliard Station has hosted more than 100 free shows and welcomed more than 5,000 attendees. Thanks to the leadership of President Damian Woetzel and the efforts of the Creative Enterprise team, the Station is fast becoming a fixture in our neighborhood as both performance lab and gathering space. Now, as the Fall Festival rings in the new season, we stand at the threshold of new possibilities for our creative community, on both sides of the glass.

"Somewhere a place for us"—we'll be singing that immortal lyric from West Side Story as well as another, from Lenny's own pen: "Walk right in / at last the door is open!"

Yours,

Derek Wang
Creative Enterprise Fellow
